WRITTEN MATERIALS

Please enclose all of the following items with your application. Please paginate and include your surname in the header of all essays and papers. This does not apply to published articles that are being used for submission.

☐ RESUME/CV

☐ PERSONAL STATEMENT
Attach a personal statement of no more than 1,000 words. Include a brief history of how you have developed as faith leader, your ministry, when and where you joined the Episcopal Church (or an Anglican Communion Church), and how this journey has led you to develop your proposed course of study.

☐ ESSAY
The essay for candidates applying for an academic track should explain the proposed course of study with a maximum length of 1,200 words. Points of discussion should include the following:

- A synopsis of the course of study
- Interest and commitment to forming the next generation of lay and clergy scholars and ministry leaders
- The demonstrated need for this particular area of study
- The proposed methodology for sharing the knowledge, experience, or best practices gained in this study with people at the community, grassroots or congregational level
- Tangible ways in which the applicant's field of academic study will benefit future students and/or the wider Church

☐ ACADEMIC PAPER
Submitted for a class or publication.

☐ WRITING SAMPLE
Please submit a sermon or article (published or accepted for publication), or equivalent written material for a non-academic/general audience.

ACADEMIC TRANSCRIPTS

Unofficial transcripts are acceptable for application review, but if the applicant is offered a Fellowship, the applicant will be required to submit official transcripts to verify the accuracy of the submitted transcripts.

You may include all of your transcripts with this application or have your transcripts mailed directly to ECF by your college/university. All transcripts must be received or postmarked by March 10th, 2017.
